Otis Skinner This Week.

Much interest is being taken in the forthcoming production of "The Duel" at the Academy Friday night and Saturday mattnee. The play is the work of one of the greatest of contemporary French dramatists, Henri Lavedan, and it has won a success abroad. Its sponsor in this country is Charles Frohman, and its star that gifted actor. Otis Skinner. Upon its production in New York, where it ran the greater portion of the winter, the ending of its second act, according to the critics, literally swept its Broadway audience off its feet. The theme is the ending of its second act, according to the critics, literally swept its Broadway audience off its feet. The theme is case that only a man of large mind and great talent would dare handle. At one angle of the work stands love as symbolized by woman, Facing her is a dector, a scientiat and likewise a scoffer at religion. Back of them stands a priest symbolized of the uplifting influence of the church. The agnostic's designs on the woman are base. The woman herself, while weak, has not allowed the the course. Letter From Washington. Many Laughable Situations.

"Black and White," as shown each night this week on the screen in the big rink at the Reservoir, is a rendition of the nurse girl problem in the North, where a pretty nurse takes a baby out for an airing in the park. A handsome poleeman comes along and he occupies her entire attention. Along comes a colored mammy with her own child. She sits down where the white nurse had been sitting and falls asleep. In the meantime the carriage with the white baby lias rolled off to some distance. After a wild the white nurse returns to where she left her carriage, grabs the handles and goes off home with the wrong baby. A number of chosen friends are calling on the mother at the time of the arrival of the nurse. The proud mother starts to exhibit her child, when the discovery is made that the contents of the carriage is not a white baby. Pandemonium ensues, and the nurse tells how it happened just as the policeman arrives on the scene. In the meantime the colored mother sets home and finds that she has a white baby instead of her precious pickaning. Both mothers hurry to the police station, where they meet and unite "Tell the committee I would not award this work to Barry if left to me," was an extract read by Mr. Jackson Bolton from a letter written him by Colonel W. $237.45, $366.30 and $262.

It is stated in the last circular issued by the Eight-Hour Committee of the International Typographical Unfon, representing over thirty-nine thousand printers at work in the country, that the union has sens $10,000 to the relief fund in San Francisco for the sufferers. In addition to this the union has sent a check for $200 on April 21st, and other unions in the different cities have acted generously in their gifts to the fund. The Chicago union individually sent $500; the Boston, $100; St. Joseph, Mo., $75, and Indianapolis, $200. This makes a total of $14,675 lis, 200. This makes a lotal of $14,875 contributed by the Typographical Unions, both national and local, and there is no doubt that many other unions in the United States have sent on funds, but are not accounted for in the circular.

The meeting opened with prayer and song and was followed by an address from Mr. De Witt Crane, of Newport News, secretary of the State Executive Committee. He gave a very interesting talk, and made a statinent concerning the present status of the State, its needs and prospects.

Mr. Stevens, superintendent of Episcopal Sunday schools in Norfolk, followed. He made a very interesting address concerning the dignity and beauty of Sunday school work. Mr. Stevens was recently appointed chairman of the State Executive Committee, and brings to the work a long and successful experience.

Mr. Hartshorn was the next to speak. It made an excellent address, and filled lis hearers with enthusiasm. He said:
"We must get Richmond, Norfolk and Newport News together in this work.
Let us discover a need, determine a plan,
and join as one in its execution." Mr.
Hartshorn told how kindly he had been received in the South while on this trip,
and related something of the Newport News convention. He said that a primary department in a Richmond Sunday schooy had sent him a bouquet of roses.
"The truest message of Christ can be typified in the gift of flowers." Mr.
Hartshorn finished by saying: "In doing
God's work, man must forget himself,
I am sorry for the man who says: I demand my rights."

Dr. Pell was the next to address the audience. He was pessimistic of what had been accomplished in the past, but was full of hopes for the future. He said there was but one problem before them, and that was to make a real beginning; what they needed was a leader. "An ever-present living man at the head will be the solution of our troubles."

Dr. Phillips, secretary of Sunday schools of the Presbyterian Church, spoke next. He made a fine talk, spoken informally and abounding with good humor and a happy view of the future.

Immediate and important action followed the address: a committee, composed of Dr. Simms, Pine Street Bapilst Church; Dr. Stiff, Centenary Methodist Church, and Mr. James Whittet, Church of the Covenant, was appointed to confer with the Sunday school unions of the city and vicinity with the intention of

FRIENDS WORKING FOR BOTH CANDIDATES

Peters' Friends Making Claims Which Cannon's Supporters Deny Absolutely.

The fight is still on for the presidency of the lower branch of the Council, in of the lower branch of the Council, in that both President R. Lee Peters and Mr. James E. Camon are both in the race with friends working like beavers for them.

The friends of Mr. Peters claim twenty-one votes for their favorite at this time, and say these have all signed a paper agreement to vote for the incumbent. They make the further claim, that others who have not signed, have possively asserted that they will cheerfully vote the same way. Out of thirty-live members eighteen will nominate, and if Mr. Peters's friends are safe in their calculations he will land the plum.

The rriends of Mr. Jas. E. Cannon, however, are tipparently undless fyed. They do not claim enough pledged votes to elect their man, but say they stand a fine chance of winning when the showdown comes.

Spends Day in His Office.

Mayor McCarthy returned yesterday from New Orleans, where he went to attend the Confederate Reunion and to invite the veterans to meet here next year. Though somewhat fatigued as a result of his long journey, the Mayor was in good spirits and was delighted with his trip. He believes the reunion here fiext year will be a great event and that it will be largely attended. The Mayor says the crowds at New Orleans were something enormous and that it was with difficulty that one could get from one point to an-

that one could get from one point to another. By the merest accident he met a brother-in-law, Judge J. M. Phillips, whom he had not seen in twenty years.

Judge Phillips resides in Kansas City, Mo., and was looking for the Mayor in the St. Charles Hotel, where the latter was registered. They just happened in the most accidental manner to stumble upon one another, and then there was a great reunion.

Amendment Rejected.

Mr. Pollock favored the amendment, and it was opposed by Mr. Pollard. The latter offered an amendment inserting "walkway." for "driveway." and it was favored by Mr. Garber and others. Major Allen and Captain Mills opposed any amendment, and thought there should be no strings tied to the proposition if the sale should be made.

The amendment of Mr. Pollard was lost and that of Mr. Davis was further considered and favored by Mr. Dabney. He and Major Allen got into a brief colloquy. The latter said cemeteries should not be used for bilarity and picnic purposes, and Mr. Dabney said he had never heard of a picnic in Hollywood. He thought it was wrong to shut out

It will be recalled that recently $15. Barry asked the Street Committee for an additional amount on a sewer contract, and it was denied. He entered suit for alleged damages against the city and this is now pending. His bid for the work let yesterday was the lowest of all, and Messrs. Mann. Whittet, Mills and Don Leavy spoke earnestly in favor of giving him the contract. He won out by a vote of six to four. The rest of the work before the Street Committee was routine in its nature.

A party of forty-nine or affty associa-tion boys went on an outlag to Forest Hill Saturday. They had a big time at base-ball, volley-ball, swimming and other sports. The way the lunch disap-peared was wonderful. Every fellow had his appetite with him. The record of the Boys Bunday Afternoon Club last Bunday, a bright, hot day, was 101.
